MISCELLANEOUS READING. A FAREWELL TO G. P. R. JAMES.

[From the Southern Literary Messenger.] The departure of Mr. G. P. R. James for his new abode in Venice was so sudden a pressing engagements, preparatory to leaving, compelled him to decline it. A few gentle-Lotteries for October, 1858, at Augusta, Ga., bandsome piece of silver to be prepared and handed to him, with these inscriptions-on one side, 'Old Dominion Julep Bowi,' on the reverse "To G. P. R. JAMES, From a few of his friends in Virginia, May their names, Familiar to his ears as household words, Be in this flowing cup fleshly remembered."

At an informal social meeting on the occasion of the presentation, the following lines were read, and they are here printed in accordance with the wishes of the parties. In giving them, the editor of the Messenger feebly expresses his feelings in parting with a most amiable gentle-man, whose literary friendship he has for several years most highly valued: Good bye! they say the time is up-The "solitary horseman" leaves us, We'd like to take a "stirrup cup,"

Though much indeed the parting grieves us. We'd like to hear the glasses clink

And with a hearty greeting drink This toast-The Author of the Gipsy! The maidens fair of many a clime Have blubbered o'er his tearful pages, The Ariosto of his time,

Around a board where none were tipsy,

Romancist of the Middle Ages; In fiction's realm a shining star, (We own ourselves his grateful debtors) Wno would not call G. P. R .-"H. B. M. C."—a Man of Letters?

But not with us his pen avails To win our hearts-this English scion, Though there are not so many tales To every roaring British Lion-For he has yet a prouder claim To praise, than dukes and lords inherit,

His honest heart and modest merit. An Englishman, whose sense of right Comes down from glorious Magna Charta, He loves, and loves with all his might, His home, his Queen, Pale Ale, the Garter; This last embraces much, 'tis best

To comprehend just what is stated-

Or wealth can give or lettered fame-

For Honi Soit-you know the rest And need not have the French translated. O! empty bauble of renown, So quickly lost and won so dearly, Our Consul wears the Muses' crown, We love him for his virtues merely; A Prince, he's ours as much as Fame's,

Then call him George Prince Regent James, And let his country swell the chorus. His country! we would gladly pledge Its living greatness and its glory-In Peace admired, and "on the edge Of battle" terrible in story:

And reigns in friendship kindly o'er us,

'Gainst wind and waves in wrath united, And nobly for a thousand years Has kept the fire of freedom lighted A glowing spark in time there came, Like sunrise, o'er the angry water, And here is fed, an altar flame, By Britain's democratic daughter-From land to land a kindred fire

O may it thrill the magic wire

A little isle, its cliffs it rears

With only love and love returning! But since we cannot meet again Where wine and wit are freely flowing, Old friend! this measure take and drain A brimming health to us in going: And far beneath Italia's sky, Where sunsets glow with hues prismatic

Bring out the bowl when you are dry,

Beneath the billow now is burning,

And pledge us by the Adriatic! INO R THOMPSON Richmond, Va., 20th September, 1858. OTICE —In the Circuit Court of the County of Alexandria, May 22d, 1858, Jane Thompson, in her own right, and as guardian of the infant children of Jane Ghiselin, dec'd., to wit: Mary Elizabeth Ghiselin, James William Ghiselin, Fidelia Ghiselin, and Rebecca Ghiselin, Kinsey Griffith and Phebe his wife, Moses Osgood and Rachel his wife, complainants, vs. James William Mills and Mary Elizaboth Mills, defendants. It appearing to the Court that the complainants have proceeded according to law to mature their cause, by publication against the defendants, who are non residents, and this cause now coming on to be heard, upon the papers formerly read, and having been argued by Counsel, it is now by the Court considered, ordered, and decreed, that one of the Commissioners of this Court, do ascertain, and report to the Court, whether the real estate mentioned in the complainants' bill, will admit of convenient partition amongst the parties entitled thereto; and the said Commissioner is further ordered and required to advertise for, and take such other steps as may be necessary to ascertain whether the defendants, Mary Elizabeth Mills and James William Mills, are now living, and report to the Court all the evidence matters as are pertinent thereto. A copy-teste: R. A. SINCLAIR, Clerk. W. A. TAYLOR, Sol. for Complainants.
